I. OVERVIEW
The Program on Negotiation (PON) at Harvard Law School offers fellowship grants to students at Harvard University, MIT, Tufts University, and other Boston-area schools, who are doing internships or undertaking summer research projects in negotiation and dispute resolution in partnership with public, non-profit or academic organizations.

The Fellowships Program’s emphasis is on advancing the links between scholarship and practice in negotiation and dispute resolution by supporting students interested in exploring career paths, either professional or academic, in this field. Through the Fellowships Program, PON hopes to prepare students to assume leadership positions in the field of negotiation and dispute resolution, to forge new links between our academic community and worldwide organizations involved in the practice of negotiation and dispute resolution, and to encourage students to reach for opportunities that would otherwise not be available to them due to financial constraints.

Questions regarding the PON Fellowships Program should be directed to Sarah Whitman, PON Student Interest Group Coordinator, at swhitman@law.harvard.edu.

ELIGIBILITY
PON Summer Fellowship grants are open to all returning students enrolled at schools in the Boston area. Eligible internships and research projects must be unpaid, undertaken in partnership with a public, non-profit or academic organization, and a minimum of eight weeks in duration. Fellowship applicants must have already secured or applied for the position/project for which they are seeking PON Summer Fellowship support. Grants will be dispersed once documentation confirming the internship or project is provided by the host organization or, in the case of research projects, by a supervising faculty member.

FUNDING
The amount of each grant is determined on a case-by-case basis taking into account the cost of travel to, and living expenses in, the student’s placement city and/or country. The maximum grant is $3500. PON will disperse the grant amount minus $250 within 6-8 weeks of the notification of receipt of a grant; the remaining $250 will be paid upon completion of all Fellowship requirements (see Section III below). Applicants are encouraged to seek supplementary financial assistance from other sources.
Note that successful candidates are wholly responsible for all arrangements regarding their placement, including travel arrangements, securing accommodations, obtaining travel visas (if necessary), obtaining appropriate medical insurance, and ensuring adequate safety and security. If there is a risk of travel to the region in which you intend to carry out your fellowship, PON is not in a position to give accurate and current information but can direct you to appropriate resources such as State Department reports and relevant NGO documents. PON is not in a position to evaluate and can take no responsibility for risks related to travel. Candidates will, as a condition of receiving a grant, be required to sign an acknowledgement of risk and general release.

II. APPLICATION INSTRUCTIONS

Final applications are due Monday, 2 April 2012.

Applications shall consist of the following:

1) Cover page listing the following information:
   - Full name
   - School and program
   - Status in current academic program (i.e., year _ of _)
   - E-mail address
   - Mailing address
   - Telephone number

2) A 2-4 page, double-spaced proposal addressing the following items:
   a. A description of the host organization and the nature of the work you will do for them.
   b. Any course work you have undertaken in negotiation and dispute resolution, especially courses directly relevant to your placement.
   c. A description of how the Fellowship will relate to your current academic program.
   d. A description of how the Fellowship will advance your career goals in the field of negotiation and dispute resolution.
   e. A list of all sources of funding you are applying for or have secured other than the PON Summer Fellowship.

3) Resume or curriculum vitae.

4) A letter of reference from a faculty member who knows your academic work well.
5) Copy of a letter from your host organization accepting you as an intern, or if you are conducting a research project, a letter from your academic supervisor detailing her/his support for your project. If your application or project has not yet been accepted, you should include documentation sufficient to demonstrate your application, and a notification date (i.e., date by which you will know whether you were accepted).

6) A budget detailing your estimated travel and living expenses for the term of your Fellowship.

7) Signed Acknowledgement of Risk and General Release Form.

Please submit your application to Sarah Whitman, PON Student Interest Group Coordinator using one of the following methods:

- by e-mail to swhitman@law.harvard.edu (strongly preferred)
- by fax to Sarah Whitman’s attention at 617-495-7818,
- by regular mail to

III. AWARD CRITERIA

PON faculty and staff will review all applications and will announce awards by the middle of April. Due to the limited number of available grants, PON will select Fellows based on the following criteria:

- Relevance of the internship/project to negotiation and dispute resolution.
- Substantiveness and feasibility of the proposed internship or project.
- Applicability to student learning and career objectives.
- Applicant experience and commitment to the field of negotiation and dispute resolution.
- Depth of host/supervisor commitment.
- Demonstrated work to secure additional funding sources, where available.

IV. FELLOWSHIP REQUIREMENTS

Confirmation of Arrival

Notify PON by letter, e-mail, phone or fax, to the attention of Sarah Whitman (swhitman@law.harvard.edu) upon arrival at your placement.
Completion of 8-week Term
Barring unforeseen and serious complications, PON expects you to fulfill your Fellowship without major changes or interruptions. You must notify and obtain the permission of PON before making any material changes to your placement plans. If you discover upon arrival that your placement is not consistent with what your host organization promised you, you should contact PON immediately to discuss how to proceed. PON reserves the right to seek reimbursement of grant funds from Fellows who fail to complete their Fellowship as outlined in their application. PON will charge a minimum of 10% up to a maximum of 100% of the grant for any unauthorized abandonment of or change to a Fellowship.

Written Report
Fellows must submit a 3-5 page (minimum) written report about their internship or project to PON by September 30, 2012. The report should be a thorough reflection on your summer experience, including how your research or internship contributed to negotiation scholarship. Also include details about the nature of your work and its relevance to your academic and professional development. Reports will be posted on the PON website for public consumption. In addition, Fellows will be asked to complete a short form to record the details of their internship or project as a reference to future students.

Presentation
Fellows will be invited to participate in a public brown bag lunch discussion hosted by PON in the early fall of 2012. At the event, Fellows can briefly (15 minutes) discuss their internship or project, with particular attention to how their experience contributes to negotiation research, and lessons for aspiring professionals and academics in negotiation and dispute resolution.

Evaluation
Fellows will complete a brief, candid evaluation of their placement for PON. Evaluations will be kept confidential and will not be available to students.
